More Information on Recruitment Training

Recruitment training is workforce training implemented through joint procurement in accordance with the Act on the Provision of Employment Services (380/2023).

If the training is targeted at persons who will be recruited by the employer participating in the procurement, the employer's share of the total training cost, excluding VAT, is 30% and the employment authority's share is 70%.

A jobseeker may be selected as a student for Recruitment Training if the employment authority has identified a training need for the person and the person is suitable for both the training and the tasks for which the Recruitment Training provides competencies. The objective is to meet the employer's need for skilled employees.

During the workplace learning period, the student is not employed by the employer. The provider responsible for the workplace learning period is responsible for the student's occupational safety during the workplace learning period in accordance with the Occupational Safety and Health Act. TyöHäme is responsible for providing insurance coverage for participants in Recruitment Training.
